

Money markets need total reliability

When one of London's leading Hedge Fund Management companies needed a network overhaul, they turned to one of our support partners who in turned called us in at MSV.

Financial companies such as this client need full-proof systems that are 100% reliable, 365 days of the year. They need reliable access to the network throughout the day and night making sure they're ready for when the main markets open around the world.

Working as part of one single team, MSV installed the type of full proof, cloud-based backup system that you would expect for a financial institution which operates within strict compliance regulations. In addition, we designed and installed a system with bespoke remote access (vital for 24hr a day, non-office access), customer connectivity and a centralized VDI (Virtual Desktop Infrastructure).

For Hedge Fund Management companies such as this, network failure is never an option as it can prove highly costly. Complete reliability was key and that's what we delivered at MSV.
